Child custody in the context of spousal/partner abuse encompasses the Coercive Control Tactics and Domestic Violence dynamics that impact Best interests of the child; Mediation; the Multidisciplinary approach related to Child custody and visitation when Domestic Violence/Coercive Control Tactics and Child Abuse occur prior to separation and during visitation. This multi-disciplinary perspective of the court system issues impacted by Coercive Control Tactics and Domestic Violence dynamics is designed to help court system personnel better meet the needs of children in child custody/visitation litigation. The strength-based treatment program is strategically designed to provide clients with tools and techniques they can apply throughout the remainder of their lives. If additional mental health treatment is needed during highly stressful times or at various life development stages, treatment time is significantly reduced.
